NOTIFICATION FOR THE PEOPLES.—A poorly old man came into our sanctum yes-with a very singular request. He knocked door timidly and came up to us with a air of ceremony, and with a half look-back, as if it were a favor he hardly toldared to ask, which was on his lips. He told us to place a piece of paper, and said he

he had to have it printed.

Speculated on its contents as we took it in hand. This man certainly had not the air and the quick step of the merchant-merchants are all in their prime, and the gent was almost at the foot of the hill.

Perhaps he was a father, and wished to see a stray horse or cow. Then it passed through our mind as we unwrapping paper. But we could hardly conceive our surprise when something as follows:

Let him indulge the dream that that his "mansion" is to bring the world to a saying knowledge of such as the genius of Newton, never at-ture that, for a Professor of Grammar, ought to have been better worded, but very points in which he might difit, were the very new discoveries which he had in his note book, being engravbe overcome, before he could bring comes a political issue, and in course of meditation, the hardihood of the new seemed to give a sort of dignity to him, who starts the world with innovation in the settled order of things, and bet-rarily to his loss of science and zeal for progress.

The Roll of Honor.
Quartermaster General Meigs has published the sixteenth number of the "Roll of Honor," prepared in the censorial branch of his office, under the direction of Breve Brigadier General Perry. It contains alphabetical list of the soldiers interred at Brooklyn, Cambridge, Chelsea and Worcester, in Massachusetts; Buffalo, Chautauqua, Cypress Hill, Fort Niagara, Lockport, Lodi, Madison Barracks, Plattsburgh Barracks, and Rochester, in New York; Gettysburg, Morrisburg, Reading, Philadelphia, Tamaqua, and Upton, in Pennsylvania; Brattleboro and Montpelier, in Vermont; and City Point, Potowomoy, and Gloucester, Richmond, and Yorktown, in Virginia. This list contains 20,500 names. The proportion of names known is less than one-half, or about 25 per cent less than that which generally holds good throughout the country, which is thought to be about two-thirds known and one-third unknown. The volume of the "Roll of Honor" increases the total number of graves now recorded in printed form to about 150,000. Of the occupants of these graves the names of about 100,000 appear as known, leaving about fifty thousand as yet unknown. Many of these unknown remains were doubtless marked by their friends or comrades at the time of their burial, and the records of the names of many others were doubtless made at the time where buried in groups or from hospital, and may have been preserved in connection with plans or schedules of the position of the graves by the intimate friends of the dead, the officers in command of the burial squads, or the surgeons in charge of field hospitals. It is desirable that all persons who may have such records in their possession should know that it is the wish of the Quartermaster's Department to recover and make use of all such means of identification, that the lists of plans may be forwarded to the Quartermaster General at Washington free of postage, and that, when they are received, immediate steps will be taken to establish the identity of remains, to enclose and properly decorate the graves, and to have the name and place recorded in printed form. It is proposed here yet remain to be printed the records of about one hundred and fifty thousand graves of deceased soldiers and marines of war belonging to the Union army, making an aggregate of three hundred and five thousand graves, so that of this whole number the names of one hundred thousand of the occupants will not now, if ever, be recovered. The whole number of soldiers who have fallen in the ranks of the Union armies for the suppression of the rebellion is supposed to be about three hundred and fifty thousand, exceeding the number of recognized graves by fifty thousand. This number of men whose graves are not recognized as in existence, either as known or unknown, is supposed to be made up approximately as follows: Killed in battle and never buried, 25,000; drowned, 5,000; graves in remote localities and not yet found, 52,000; graves covered by deposits of gravel and sand made by the Mississippi and its tributaries, 2,000; graves carried away by the current in the banks of the same, 3,000, making a total of 50,000. The number of those who died at home after being mustered out, from wounds or disease contracted while in the service, is not included in any of the above enumerations. The list to be printed in the future will contain the names of most of the soldiers buried in the states of West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and the Territories, and of such portions as those buried in the States of Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Texas, and Tennessee as have not heretofore been printed. Statements are also made of the disposition of some of the bodies of the deceased Union soldiers and marines who whose remains have been removed to the national cemeteries in the Southern and Western States.

Death of Mr. Ezra Clark.

Mr. Ezra Clark, whose illness was noticed in our last, died at 11 o'clock p.m. on Tuesday evening.

He had been confined since the 26th ult., when he was prostrated by a severe cold, which sped so rapidly that it was a favor he hardly toldared to ask, which was on his lips. He

he had to have it printed.
